Raymond D. Fowler Award for Outstanding Contributions to APA

BACKGROUND/HISTORY

The Fowler award was established in 2003 to recognize Dr. Fowler's service to the association. The Raymond D. Fowler Award for Outstanding Contributions to APA recognizes an APA member who has had a significant and enduring impact on APA as an organization and who has shown a clear dedication to advancing APA's mission.

Prospective nominees for the Raymond D. Fowler Award will demonstrate one or more of the following: 1) a clear dedication to advancing APA's mission; 2) outstanding effort in advancing APA as a professional organization; 3) consensus-building among constituent groups within the organization; 4) contributions that have a significant and enduring impact on the association and 5) contributions that have a significant impact on the financial health of the organization.

APA Members may be nominated by another APA member or constituent APA group (i.e., APA boards, committees, divisions, state/provincial psychological associations). Members of the Board of Directors are not eligible to be nominated for the award during their term of service on the Board.

A complete nominations package is required for consideration. That includes: 1) a nominations statement of up to 500 words, 2) no more than 3 letters of support and 3) a current vita. The annual deadline for receipt of nominations is March 31.

A citation will be read at the August meeting of the Council of Representatives and the recipient's name will be added to a wall plaque that will be placed prominently in the APA headquarters building. A $1,000 honorarium will accompany the award.
