Agenda

Publications & Communications (P&C) Board Chair Danny Wedding opened the meeting by acknowledging P&C member-elect Dr. Cecil Reynolds. He next welcomed new Board of Directors Liaison, Dr. Luz Garcini and new Open Science and Methodology Expert Panel Chair Dr. Lisa DeBruine. Dr. Wedding, Simons and Merin next spoke to APA's Conflicts of Interests Policy.

1. RECEIVED: Chief Publishing Officer Updates

Chief Publishing Officer Jasper Simons raised issues warranting attention within APA's publishing program, including generative artificial intelligence, open access and ongoing negotiations with a large customer. Simons next discussed advocacy priorities relating to APA's publishing program and P&C's work. With respect to advocacy, Simons would recommend a focus on funding for science, copyright protections relating to AI, and author choice with regard to copyright licenses and publishing models.

2. APPROVED: Journal Advisory Committee Report

Michael Roberts reviewed the Journal Advisory Committee's (JAC) January 2024 meeting. Dr. Roberts shared an update regarding a clarification to the scope statement of Translational Issues in Psychological Science. He next presented proposals for a special section in History of Psychology and to add viewpoint papers as a new type of article to the Journal of Psychopathology and Clinical Science.

Motion Approved:

That the P&C Board approves the special section as proposed by the Editor of History of Psychology.

Motion Approved:

That the P&C Board approves adding Viewpoint papers as a new type of article to the Journal of Psychopathology and Clinical Science.

3. RECEIVED: Chief Editorial Advisor Update

Dr. Jennifer Crocker provided a review of her work in 2023. Dr. Crocker noted that although the total volume is stable, the types of cases coming to her in her capacity as Chief Editorial Advisor are changing. There are fewer concerns about editor decisions. There are more questions about retractions or corrections, often relating to data incongruencies. Crocker shared the pleasure she takes in doing this work and working with journal editors and APA staff. The P&C Board members stated the importance of the Chief Editorial Advisor role, and their continued appreciation for Dr Crocker's support.

4. RECEIVED: Open Science & Methodology Briefing

New Open Science & Methodology Expert Panel Chair, Dr. Lisa DeBruine briefed the P&C Board regarding the Open Science and Methodology Expert Panel's (OSM) work. A fifth member just joined OSM. OSM priorities are: A) revising its guide for open research and B) conducting a Transparency and Openness Promotion (TOP) statement audit. The guide for open research was oriented towards editors. OSM will reorient the guide towards both authors and reviewers.

5. RECEIVED: APA Strategic Plan Update

APA is in the process of revising its Strategic Plan, modifying the plan to ensure the organization is positioned to deliver maximum impact over the next five years. APA's Board of Directors, Council of Representatives, boards and committees, divisions and APA Members have all had the opportunity to provide their thoughts on potential updates to the plan. In late February 2024, the Council of Representatives will consider and vote on a new strategic plan for the association. Jasper Simons discussed the implications of the updated plan for the P&C Board and APA's publishing program. The work of the P&C Board aligns closely with the current and proposed strategic plans, particularly with regard to strengthening APA's role as the leading voice for psychology.

6. RECEIVED: Review of APA's Report on Promotion, Tenure and Retention of Faculty of Color in Psychology

Dr. Rose Sokol walked the P&C Board through an update regarding APA's recent Task Force Report on Promotion, Tenure and Retention of Faculty of Color in Psychology. P&C Members and affiliates contributed to the report. Sokol elicited feedback from P&C regarding further considerations or steps for APA publishing to consider, specifically as the Board seeks to make the journals program more equitable, diverse, and inclusive. Going forward, APA's Publishing and Science offices will continue to collaborate to advance this important work.

7. RECEIVED: Update on Current Efforts Regarding Generative Artificial Intelligence in Publishing

Jasper Simons presented both the threats and the opportunities that generative AI poses to academic publishing and to APA. Simons will make a similar presentation to the Council of Representatives meeting in late February. P&C Members discussed the threats and opportunities, noting that some developments fall into both categories for APA. For example, "hallucinations of AI" spread misinformation, but are also an opportunity for APA as trusted sources will become even more important.

8. Open Discussion

Time was set aside for the Publications and Communications Board to discuss matters of interest and import to P&C Members. None were raised.

Agenda

Publications & Communications (P&C) Board Chair Danny Wedding opened the meeting by welcoming acknowledging P&C member-elect Dr. Cecil Reynolds.

1. RECEIVED: Briefing on APA Publishing

Chief Publishing Officer Jasper Simons noted that APA publishing's 2023 revenues and expense management both exceeded their targets. Simons next engaged the P&C Board in a discussion regarding the practice of controlled digital lending and its implications. APA is revisiting its policies relating to staff who want to author or edit content in APA or other publications.

2. RECEIVED: Open Science & Methodology (OSM) Briefing

Open Science and Methodology Expert Panel Chair Dr. Lisa DeBruine briefed the board regarding recent activities of the expert panel. Transparency and Openness Promotion (TOP) protocols remain a major part of the activities of OSM, which is working to ensure that the protocols are easy for both editors and authors to use. OSM continues to promote open science practices, reiterating that open access and open science are not the same thing. APA is seen as a leader in open science. OSM is discussing computational reproducibility checks and who should bear responsibility. OSM is also actively considering ways to encourage self-correction post-publication.

3. RECEIVED: Council of Editors (COE) Update

COE Chair Dr. Katie Witkiewitz, COE Chair-elect Dr. Elena Grigorenko, and Annie Hill collectively shared an update on recent activities of the Council. Editors want to implement JARS-REC and TOP guidelines but do so efficiently. Editors do not want to turn authors away with what are sometimes seen as onerous submission requirements. The editors had a positive discussion regarding a draft code of conduct for editors. The editors next discussed engaging international authors. The P&C Board in turn discussed attracting diverse international representation when conducting editor searches. Discussion of the constant need for reviewers led to discussion of potentially elevating the role of consulting editors and of finding new ways to acknowledge reviewers.

4. RECEIVED: 2023 Journals Office Report

Dr. Rose Sokol reviewed the performance of APA's journals program in 2023 and fielded questions. She noted that the number of APA journals with impact factors has increased from 58 to 79. Dr. Sokol next discussed the extensive social media outreach APA's publishing program is conducting. The P&C Board discussed relative costs and strategies of print vs. electronic distribution of journals.

5. RECEIVED: APA Journals EDI Progress Report

Steph Pollock presented an update regarding the progress of the recommendations of the BSA-P&C Joint Task Force Report. Thus far APA has met or exceeded all the goals in the report. Pollock fielded questions and welcomed input about areas the P&C Board would like to prioritize.

6. RECEIVED: Chief Editorial Advisor Update

Dr. Jennifer Crocker shared an update regarding her activities as Chief Editorial Advisor (CEA). Dr. Crocker walked the P&C Board through examples of recent cases she has reviewed.

7. APPROVED: Journal Advisory Committee (JAC) Report

JAC Chair Michael Roberts reviewed JAC's April 2024 meeting, focusing on additions to the scope statement of Psychiatric Rehabilitation Journal and an editorial proposal for Psychological Bulletin. P&C Members recommended that proposed editorial for Psychological Bulletin be handled outside of the journal where it can be evaluated by disinterested parties.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the additions to the Psychiatric Rehabilitation Journal scope statement.

Motion rejected: That the P&C Board approves the Editorial for Psychological Bulletin.

8. RECEIVED: Update on Current Efforts Regarding Generative Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Publishing

Jasper Simons reported that APA is working to strike a healthy balance of engaging with AI, while protecting against risks. APA is planning and testing new ways to use AI within its publishing program. APA staff continues to make authors and editors aware of APA's AI policies. The P&C Board next discussed ways that AI could be used legitimately within APA's publishing processes. Simons invited P&C Members to continue raising AI related issues or opportunities.

Upon Dr. Pamela Reid's early departure from the meeting, it was noted that this is the last non-executive session meeting of her term. Dr. Reid was generous to rotate back onto P&C to serve the balance of a term that another member was not able to complete. Dr. Reid shared her appreciation for serving on P&C, and P&C Members shared their appreciation for her service.

9. RECEIVED: Briefing on New Read & Publish Agreements

Dr. Rose Sokol briefed the P&C Board regarding the nature of read and publish agreements, their strategic significance within APA's publishing program, and recent developments in this area. APA seeks to support the broad array of psychology authors by providing various publishing models. P&C Members discussed the benefits and tradeoffs of read & publish agreements, including potential inequities.

10. CONDUCTED: Open Discussion

The P&C Board discussed performance relative to EDI goals within editorial searches, with respect to both who is on search committees, and who is nominated for editor roles. The board contemplated steps that could be taken to increase EDI. Staff shared plans that are underway, and intentions to move in the directions raised by P&C Members.

Danny Wedding thanked outgoing Council of Editors Chair Dr. Katie Witkiewitz for her service to both the Council of Editors and P&C Board. P&C Members and Affiliates joined in sharing their appreciation with Dr. Witkiewitz. On behalf of the P&C Board, Chair-elect Michael Roberts conveyed his gratitude for Danny Wedding's service as P&C Chair. Members, affiliates, and staff also shared their appreciation. Dr. Wedding thanked participants and called the day's meeting to a close.

Agenda

Publications & Communications (P&C) Board Chair Michael Roberts opened the meeting by welcoming new P&C Board Member, Dr. Cecil Reynolds. He next welcomed Drs. Elena Grigorenko and John Ruiz in their new leadership roles on the Council of Editors.

1. RECEIVED: Briefing on APA Publishing

Chief Publishing Officer Jasper Simons noted that APA is always evaluating its products and services. It was decided to discontinue Academic Writer Direct. Resources will be redirected to APA's Publication Manual. Certain competing publishers have made deals with AI companies to allow large language models to ingest their content without sufficient consideration for the needs and interests of their author community. APA does not plan to replicate such approaches.

2. APPROVED: Journal Advisory Committee (JAC) Report

Journal Advisory Committee (JAC) Chair Steve Kozlowski reviewed JAC's July 2024 meeting. During the item about Psychological Assessment, P&C discussed the value of sharing translations of test articles and potential alternate options for dissemination. P&C works to be particularly judicious when deciding against the requests of editors but were concerned with the implications of moving away from an important need served by the journal. Cecil Reynolds recused from the associated vote relating to publication of translations of test articles in Psychological Assessment.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the scope change proposal for Psychology of Violence.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the changes to the scope statement of Decision.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves Dr. Michael E. Lamb's departure editorial for Psychology, Public Policy, and Law.

AMERICAN

ASSOCIATION

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the topics proposed for the four issues of Volume 12 (2026) of Translational Issues in Psychological Science.

Motion rejected: That the P&C Board approves the editor's request to cease publication of translations of test articles in Psychological Assessment.

3. DISCUSSED: Demographic Data on Editorial Boards and Editors

Dr. Rose Sokol presented data on representation of members across a set of demographic characteristics serving on editorial boards and as editors compared to psychology doctoral representation and the US population. Dr. Sokol sought P&C's input regarding how APA should approach these considerations moving forward.

4. RECEIVED: Chief Editorial Advisor Report

Dr. Jennifer Crocker shared an update on her busy recent quarter as Chief Editorial Advisor (CEA). Dr. Crocker walked the P&C Board through recent cases she has reviewed and elicited input from the P&C Board regarding principles to apply in future considerations. One consideration was whether to remove comments to articles that have subsequently been retracted. At this time, the P&C Board saw no need to change the retraction and correction policy to address comments to such articles.

5. DEFERRED: Developments with AI Generated Journal Submissions

This agenda item which was originally to be discussed in both general and executive sessions was deferred to executive session to allow the P&C Board to recover time on the agenda.

6. RECEIVED: Update from APA Chief Business Innovation & Growth Officer

Guillermo Corea, APA's Chief Business Innovation & Growth Officer discussed upcoming revenue strategies and priorities for the association. P&C considered the potential relevance of these efforts to APA's publishing program.

7. Open Discussion

Time was set aside for the Publications and Communications Board to discuss matters of interest and import to P&C Members. None were raised.

Michael Roberts thanked participants and called the meeting into executive session.

Agenda

Publications & Communications (P&C) Board Chair Michael Roberts opened the meeting by welcoming attendees.

1. RECEIVED: Briefing on APA Publishing

Chief Publishing Officer Jasper Simons noted the continued strong performance of the publishing program. APA continues to explore ways to advance EDI work, ethics content and look for process improvements. P&C discussed managing infringements on APA's intellectual property.

2. RECEIVED: Open Science & Methodology Briefing

Open Science & Methodology Expert Panel (OSM) Chair Lisa DeBruine updated P&C on activities relating to the Transparency and Openness Promotion (TOP) Guidelines. A preprint will be available in 2025 with a new TOP Guideline taxonomy. OSM may recommend that all APA journals move back to level 1 for all categories. OSM hopes to gain greater clarity regarding the open science practices in which each journal engages. P&C discussed mechanisms for TOP Guideline enforcement and verification.

3. APPROVED: Journal Advisory Committee (JAC) Report

Kathleen Kendall-Tackett reviewed JAC's September 2024 meeting. She noted that many editorials were outside of current guidance, but that JAC supports approving the current round of editorials and then doing more to educate about the guidance. P&C discussed appropriate lengths for editorials.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the inaugural editorial for Journal of Experimental Psychology: Learning, Memory, and Cognition.

AMERICAN
ASSOCIATION

Motion approved: That P&C Board approves the inaugural editorial for the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology: Interpersonal Relations and Group Processes.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the inaugural editorial for Professional Psychology: Research and Practice.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the outgoing editorial for Professional Psychology: Research and Practice.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the inaugural editorial for Psychology and Aging.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the inaugural editorial for Psychology, Public Policy, and Law without the element relating to triple-blind peer review since that is not possible within Editorial Manager at the current time and is likely to remain so for the foreseeable future.

4. RECEIVED: Chief Editorial Advisor Report

Dr. Jennifer Crocker shared an update on her busy recent period as Chief Editorial Advisor (CEA). In 2024 Dr. Crocker has handled a record number of cases. Dr. Crocker discussed the upcoming transition of the CEA role. P&C Members expressed gratitude for Dr. Crocker's service upon the last P&C Board meeting in her term as CEA.

5. APPROVED: Journal Editors Code of Conduct

Mare Meadows presented the draft Editors Code of Conduct, noting the rationale for the code and the input that has already been received from P&C Board Members. Meadows and P&C Members discussed places and ways that APA might post and promote the code.

Motion approved: That the P&C Board approves the Editor Code of Conduct.

6. APPROVED: P&C Board Sponsored Programming for 2025 APA Convention

The P&C Board reviewed its approach to programming at APA's Convention.

Motion approved: The P&C Board approves the How-To session types for the dedicated two hours of P&C Board-sponsored programming and requests one additional programming hour during APA 2025 to support APA Books.

7. DISCUSSED: Considerations for Policy Around Generative AI

Rose Sokol noted that APA's policies on generative AI were among the first in academic publishing. Sokol reviewed APA's existing AI publishing policies and then led a P&C Board discussion regarding whether changes or additions to the policies should be considered. P&C discussed the importance of reaching out to authors who are non-native English speakers and writers, and that it will become increasingly difficult to distinguish between assistive and generative AI programs. P&C discussed the challenges in policing the use of AI, including the risk of overburdening people who are trying to follow the rules. Staff will bring back recommended changes to the policy in the Winter, 2025 meeting based on P&C Board input.

8. RECEIVED: Overview of APA's PsycTests Database

ASSOCIATION

Alvin Walker shared an overview of APA's PsycTests Database, a database of psychological tests and measures designed for use with social and behavioral science research. Walker next fielded questions from the P&C Board.

9. RECEIVED: Board of Scientific Affairs Population Health Proposal to Journal Editors

Dr. Leslie Hammer joined the meeting representing the Board of Scientific Affairs (BSA). BSA proposed that APA promote population health perspectives in some of APA's peer reviewed journals. Members of the Board of Scientific Affairs offer to work with interested editors of journals published by APA to: articulate priorities based on where psychological science can make the strongest contributions; craft calls for proposals; identify special issue or section editors; and identify potential reviewers for papers that are submitted.

Michael Roberts thanked participants and called the day's meeting to a close.
