

Psychologists Can Stop Bullying and Prevent Violence

Psychologists study how people form bad attitudes, get angry, and start fights. Then, they find ways to help them change these behaviors. If you're interested in understanding people and preventing violence, consider a career in psychology.

Psychology — It's More Than You Think! For information, go to www.apa.org